

VICTORIA is an unpredictable hit woman. Her psyche could be described as hysterically theatrical, which makes her brutality becomes unrestrained. Since one of her clients has angered her because of some triviality, she kidnapped his 10-year-old daughter. What Victoria doesn't know, is that this kidnapping will be a real test for her: the girl is fearless, brave, more emotionally mature than Victoria - and terribly annoying.

VICTORIA

What?

KID

Are you a bad person?

VICTORIA

Yep.

KID

Did you kidnap me?

VICTORIA

Yep.

KID

Are you a pedophile?

Victoria did not expect this question. She stares at the child in surprise.

VICTORIA

No.

She continues eating.

KID

Good.

And continues to eat as well. Then:

KID

Why don't you speak Russian?

VICTORIA

I don't like it.

KID

Where are we going now?

VICTORIA

First to get money and then to your father.

KID
Why didn't you take my mother

VICTORIA
She's too fat.

Short silence.

VICTORIA
Why do you speak such a good english?

KID
Language is information. And information... is everything.

VICTORIA
(at the same time)
...is everything. Yes, I know.
(beat)
Hablas español?
(do you speak spanish?)

KID
Si.

VICTORIA
Tu parles francais?
(Do you speak French?)

KID
Oui.
(Ja.)

Victoria snorts. Smartass.

VICTORIA
Putong hua?

The child looks at her impenetrably and does not answer.
Victoria laughs at her with her mouth full.

VICTORIA
This language you don't know, he?

KID
Is my father evil?

VICTORIA
Yes. He's the worst.
(short pause)
And you?

KID
I don't know yet. Is it difficult to be bad?

VICTORIA
Not if you are. Eat up.
We've got to get going.

KID
Where to?

VICTORIA
To an old friend's house.

She stands up.

KID
Woia ba ta dai so.

VICTORIA
What?

KID
You don't speak Mandarin at all.

Victoria pushes away the thought of pushing the child into the next puddle. Then:

VICTORIA
Shut up. I'm still learning.
